When Fall is Better Than Summer and Spring: These Art Shows Are In The Crisp Season Spirit

Posted By : Katie Killary Posted Date : 9.25.15 In Arts And Culture

Spring is crisp and colorful. Summer is sunny and just plain fun, plus it's good to get away, travel, and work on your tan. But Fall: it's the most crisp and fun of them all. Do you ever notice how the air is more refreshing and people are generally more relaxed after summertime? I mean, they no longer spend their weekend hours escaping town on the LIRR/Amtrak/Metro North, etc. In the Fall there's more reason to stay close to home and enjoy the neighborhood. This week's art shows have captured the spirit of the season as everyone prepares to celebrate new shows at Wayfarers, Valentine (they have a new location!), Schema Projects, Theodore:Art, Songs for Presidents and The Parlour Bushwick. We'll see you there!

Kimberly-Klark Gallery opened "Umpawaug's Bloom" on September 5th, featuring assemblage and collage by Erin Jane Nelson, Phil Cote and Ashley Carter, supplemented with works by the late Ray Johnson. With references to photography, the combination of objects address a connection to horticulture, described by Hyperallergic as "mutating into the strange hybrid" with the absence, yet the presence, of flowers in bloom.
